Legislative Research Group To Study Juvenile Delinquency

A special committee met last night to bring the city's juvenile delinquency problem under closer scrutiny.

Meeting in city Council Chambers following the regular Council session, the seven-man legislative research committee outlined phases of the problem to be studied and appointed each committee member a liaison between the group and task forces that will be appointed to study particular phases of the issue.

John Taylor, Council parliamentarian, explained that the committee, modeled after the federal Hoover commission and the state legislative research commission, would appoint task forces familiar with a particular aspect of the problem.

Each will make a report to the committee which in turn will correlate all the reports and submit them to Council for action.

While the committee is expected to undertake other projects, its first undertaking will be juvenile delinquency in general and the current ordinance in particular.

At last night's meeting, seven task forces were established. Citizens who composed them will be named later.

Acting as liaison between the ministers and church group task force will be Aubrey Hayes; Arthur Hanna (students), James Aldom (mothers clubs), Dan Weber (Parent Teacher Associations), Lloyd Gordon (municipal study), Oscar McCammon (effectiveness of ordinance and Louis Cohan (school authorities).

The legislative research group is composed of two members representing Council, Colian and Han-na; two city employees, Hayes

Curb Placed On Stock Market

Buyers Must Put Up 60 Per Cent Cash

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government put out a moderately restraining hand toward the surging stock market today, calling for purchasers of stocks to put up at least 60 per cent cash instead of the previous 50 per cent.

The action, announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday, was promptly protested by the New York Stock Exchange president, Keith Funston, as restraining "the proper function of the market and the free interplay of the basic law of supply and demand."

The increased "down payment" is effective on stocks bought today and hereafter.

The stock market has been advancing steadily for more than 15 months, and since the November elections it has been surging ahead with almost unprecedented speed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks slipped yesterday to $155.80 after reaching $156.40 Monday, a level topped only by the peak of $157.70 on Sept. 3, 1929, shortly before the big Wall Street crash. There were no federal cash minimums in 1929.

The government has no authority to regulate stock prices. A 1934 law authorizes the reserve board only to "prevent the excessive use of credit" in the stock market. The theory behind the action is that a hike in the cash requirement will cut down on speculative buying. The requirement could have been raised to 10 per cent.

New York brokers generally agree that speculation on margin is not a major factor in the present boom. The ratio of money borrowed by brokers to lend for margin trading is only about 1 per cent of the value of all securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange. In 1929 it was nearly 10 per cent.

According to the latest available reserve board figures, total credit extended to customers by brokers and dealers increased from $1,655,000,000 on Feb. 1, 1954, to $2,202,000,000 last Nov. 30.

It was possible the action might even stimulate market activity. Some officials conceded the boost in margin requirements might be taken by many investors as indicating the government thought the market would continue to advance.

Salem Escapes Year Without Traffic Fatality

Injuries In Auto Mishap Double Total Of '53, However

While no traffic fatalities were recorded in Salem during 1954, persons injured during the year almost doubled the 1953 figure.

According to Police Chief George Earley, 49 persons were injured in the 441 auto accidents police investigated last year. In 1953, only 25 persons were hurt, but two persons were killed in the 410 mishaps that year. In 1952, three fatalities, 41 injuries and 418 auto accidents were recorded.

During 1954, police arrested a total of 387 persons, compared with 316 the previous year.

Of the total number of auto accidents, 371 involved two vehicles while 42 were attributed to a vehicle and a fixed object. Of the remainder, 23 occurred when a vehicle hit a pedestrian, four involving a car and a bicycle and one where a car hit a train.

Reckless Driving Leads

Reckless operation accounted for the largest share of the year's arrests when 110 drivers were apprehended. Following reckless operation were intoxication, 103; driving while intoxicated, 34; disorderly conduct, 31; no driver's license, 21; assault and battery, 17; resisting arrest, 13; and failure to yield the right of way, 11.

Ten persons were arrested on alien warrants; petit larceny accounted for six; permitting on unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle, four; servicemen absent without leave, three; and two on each of the following counts, trucks operating off state routes, runaway juveniles, disturbing the peace, fictitious license plates, passing on a railroad track, auto theft, and hit-skip.

One arrest was made during the year for each of the following charges: failure to obey a traffic signal, failure to signal a turn, unsafe operation, violating a red light, cutting with intent to wound, obtaining money under false pretenses, suspicion, driving left of center, fighting, and making a U-turn.

During the year, police investigated 58 reports of petit larceny.

Wick Faces Court Hearing Thursday

Francis M. Wick of S. Ellsworth Ave., a 48-year-old morals suspect, will be returned Thursday from Massillon State Hospital for a hearing before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at Lisbon.

The judge's course of action will depend upon a report hospital doctors have prepared on the defendant who is accused of sexual aberrations involving over 24 Salem youths.

Lodged against him is a formal charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors, although Salem police arrested him Dec. 7 at his apartment on a sodomy charge. Judge Tobin has already meted out varying forms of punishment to the group of boys who confessed they visited Wick's home.

City Reduced Bonded Debt $81,200 In '54

The city's bonded indebtedness was reduced somewhat during the year 1954. City Auditor Helen Coyne reported today.

According to Mrs. Coyne $81,200 in bonds were redeemed during the year, reducing the total indebtedness as of Jan. 1, 1955 to $1,989,703.

The bond indebtedness Jan. 1, 1954 was $2,070,903 but the city was forced to issue $54,906 in one-year notes during 1954. They were for the "white way" lighting and paving on State St. and Broadway and the Cleveland St. sanitary sewer.

Mrs. Coyne reported that the city paid $51,636 in interest on the bonds during the year.

A breakdown of the amount redeemed by the city on each of the bond issues shows: $10,000, water works reservoir bond issue; $32,000, water works first mortgage bonds; $12,000, city storm sewer bonds; $15,000, City Hall bonds; $2,300, general obligation bond issue for street improvements; $2,000, general obligation bond issue for street equipment and $7,900, special assessment bond issue.

Jones Allotment Annexation To City Is Urged In Council

City Council was asked last night to consider the annexation of approximately 40 acres of west end land to the city and thus increase water department revenue by about $50,000 annually.

Russell Jones, representing the Highland Park Allotment, told the Council members that if the section between the Georgetown and New-garden Roads west and south of the city were added to Salem, both residents of the area and the municipality would benefit.

"We need city water and sewage and you have both to sell," he said.

Stressing that the area had approximately 150 lots where homes in the $10,000 - $12,000 range are located, Jones emphasized that the city not only would derive water revenue from the district, but also would receive sewerage and tax dividends.

Councilwoman Mary Bryan suggested that Council President James Aldom name a three-man committee from Council to study the possibility of annexing the district.

In other Council action, two ordinances were given a first reading and referred to the safety committee.

Ordinances receiving first readings were:

1. An appropriation of $34,950 for operation of the sewage department during 1955. The money would be used for supplies and maintenance, power and heat, payroll, office salaries and supplies and sewer maintenance.

2. An appropriation of $184,000 for operation of the water department for the next year. This appropriation would be expended for salaries, materials, maintenance, bond payments, interest on bonds, chemicals, power, tools, meters and pipe.

Other Actions

Receiving second readings were ordinances:

1. Naming several streets "throughways." They are Cedar St. from S. Lundy to N. Lincoln, S. Lundy from Cherry north beyond Deming, Orchard St. from Cedar to Olive, Cherry St. from S. Lundy to Orchard and Olive from Cherry to S. Lincoln.

2. Providing for angle parking on S. Broadway between Aetna and W. Pershing on the west side of the street and between the first alley south of E. Pershing and the north entrance of the Hine garage.

3. Providing for six-minute parking between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. on the west side of N. Lincoln from E. State to Sugartree Alley and 15-minute loading zones on the west side of Ellsworth Ave.

Letters were received from two city officials making requests.

Fire Chief Clarence Wright repeated his request for a 48-foot aerial truck to protect the city's taller buildings against fire and he stated that he felt his salary should be increased. His letter was referred to the safety and finance committees.

City Electrician Walter Worman suggested that Council study the possibility of buying 100 new light poles and accompanying equipment to better city lighting facilities. He said that such a project would cost about $10,000. His message also was referred to the safety and finance committees.

County Man To Begin Penitentiary Sentence

George H. Sharp, 65, of Salineville, convicted in Stark County common pleas court on an abortion charge, reported to the Stark County sheriff's office today for transportation to the Ohio penitentiary.

Sharp, who was sentenced after his trial to a term of from one to seven years, will be taken to Columbus probably tomorrow.

The defendant was arrested after performing an illegal operation on a Canton girl. The fifth district appellate court upheld the lower court's conviction after Sharp appealed the jury's decision.

All Is Harmonious As Council Convenes

Councilman crossed party lines at their meeting last night.

When roll was called, two of the seven members of the city's legislative body were absent.

Republican Councilman Herm a Kniseley rose and asked that the absence of Democratic Councilman Charles Edwards be excused. Democratic Councilman William Stark reciprocated and requested a similar courtesy be extended to Republican R. M. Linder.

Seeks Murder Indictment In Death Of Girl

BUCYRUS, Ohio (AP)—Prosecutor John D. Sears Jr. said he will seek an early grand jury session in the pillow fight murder of 16-year-old Patricia Spears.

The prosecutor said the girl's brother, Frederick, 17, admitted the slaying but offered no reason.

Sears said he will ask to have the regular grand jury meet next week, a month early. He said he will ask a murder indictment. No charges have yet been filed.

Officers quoted the freckle-faced brother as saying he strangled Patricia in her bed following a pillow fight last Friday. He is being held in county jail.

Patricia's body was found Saturday in a thicket about two miles from the Spears home at nearby Gallon. The body was nude and partly covered with dry leaves. An autopsy showed she was not sexually attacked.

Sheriff Elwood F. Jacobs said Frederick confessed after he was taken to view his sister's body before private funeral services at Gallon yesterday.

After telling his story to the sheriff, he admitted the slaying to his parents at the funeral home.

CIO Seeks Changes In Election Laws

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio CIO convention, opening here tomorrow, is expected to call upon the legislature to make it easier for Ohioans to register and vote by nine changes in the state's election laws.

The 1,300 delegates, representing a half million Ohio CIO members, will consider a resolution calling for these changes:

1. Requiring election boards to send employees door-to-door to register eligible voters.

2. Providing for registration by mail.

3. Opening all precinct voting booths for at least three days a year for registration.

4. Providing for permanent registration by eliminating the necessity to re-register because of failure to vote.

5. Opening voting places on election day from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.

6. Abolition of the office-type ballot and return to the old type ballot which listed candidates for each party separately, and permitted straight-ticket voting with one mark.

7. Making election day a legal holiday, giving workers the day off with pay.

8. Allowing nonaffiliated organizations access to lists of registered voters so they can check who is not registered.

9. Requiring election board to make available maps showing wards and precincts.

The opening sessions of the convention tomorrow will include addresses by Jack Kroll, national director of the Political Action Committee, and I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer of the United Steelworkers.

Democrats Take Control Of Both Houses

Parties Postpone Members' Assignment To Committees

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats take control of Congress today with the pledge of the new Senate majority leader, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, that they will offer "neither blind support nor blind opposition" to President Eisenhower's program.

Formalities Scheduled

Both houses of the 84th Congress were scheduled to go through the formalities of transferring control from the Republicans to the Democrats, swear in new members and adjourn to await Eisenhower's personally delivered State of the Union message tomorrow.

That message is expected to be built around claims of prosperity at home and the nonexistence of hostilities abroad, with assurances that the GOP administration is moving to tighten the nation's defenses in an area of continuing cold war.

Re-elected as Democratic floor leader by a party caucus yesterday, Johnson said in an interview he and his colleagues have "rejected the theory that it is the duty of the opposition to oppose merely for opposition's sake."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said he is looking forward to a "constructive session."

"I believe that on a good deal of legislation we will have cooperation between the two parties," he said.

Knowland said he and Johnson had agreed to keep in close consultation on the legislative program, but had not come to any understanding yet about what will be the first business before the Senate.

Rep. Rayburn of Texas, the incoming Democratic House speaker has said that body will go to work first on Eisenhower's expected proposal for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, together with additional tariff-cutting powers.

While Democrats in general likely will support that proposal, Rayburn told a caucus of Democratic representatives yesterday things were done and said by Republicans in last year's pre-election campaign that he could "neither forgive nor forget."

This was an obvious reference to "party of treason" charges the Democrats said were aimed at them during the campaign. It also echoed previous complaints by Rayburn about some of the tactics employed by Vice President Nixon and others.

Nixon will be presiding over a Senate going back after two years of GOP rule, to Democratic control by the margin of one vote.

When 14 new senators have been sworn in, the Senate's membership will include 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans and Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore). Despite some absences on both sides, Sen. George (D-Ga.) was named for the post by a Democratic caucus yesterday.

Knowland said he assumes that, as Republican leader, he will suggest to the Democrats that specific bills to carry out the President's program be taken up as they come along.

However, the Democrats will fix their own priorities on legislation. Both parties delayed assignment of members to Senate committees at least until next week, when the Democrats are expected to put Morse on at least one major group.

Morse, who bolted the GOP during the 1952 presidential race, has indicated he might run for re-election in 1956 as a Democrat.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), incoming chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he is going along with the President against any tax cuts at this session.

200 County Herds Suspect After Tests

LISBON — The milk ring test completed last week shows about 200 herds of cows in Columbiana County are suspected of having brucellosis.

Dr. Jay Smith of Carrollton reports that 14.4 per cent of the 1,416 herds tested are considered "suspect" until a blood test is made.

"This should not alarm farmers, since in the 1953 test, only 22 per cent of the herds labeled 'suspect' were found to be infected with brucellosis," Floyd Lower, agricultural extension agent, said.

He said there has been a steady decline in amount of brucellosis since the ring test was begun in 1949. Diseased animals are supposed to be slaughtered by owners.

The current test accounted for about 10,000 milking cows in the county, but "dry" cows, naturally are eliminated from the program. These non-lactating animals, besides young stock, may harbor the germs of Bang's disease, so the ring test is not flawless.

"It is a screening test which narrows down the number of suspected herds, so these can be diagnosed by examining the blood," Lower said.

Georgi Van Fossan of Leetonia RD 1 and county veterinarians are expected to have the cows blood-tested within a few weeks.

Bills To Flood Ohio Legislature

Proposed New Laws May Total 1,000

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Legislature opened the floodgates today for introducing the first of an expected heavy stream of proposed new laws. The total of bills may hit 1,000 before the 101st General Assembly finally adjourns. The House probably will set a deadline on bill introduction late next month. The Senate observes no deadline.

The legislature's two members on the State Controlling Board yesterday indicated they will furnish the votes needed on the board to release $705,500 to pay for a detailed engineering survey of the proposed Cincinnati-Conneaut Turnpike.

But there was a bill ready for introduction today to strip the Ohio Turnpike Commission of authority to issue bonds for turnpike construction without the legislature's approval.

Sen. David Ferguson, Cambridge Republican, is the bill's author. He said the bill, if it becomes law, would require approval of the General Assembly before bonds could be issued for the proposed turnpike with its Toledo spur. The measure would give the legislature the whip hand in determining future turnpike routes and, in fact, the final word on whether future turnpikes are to be built at all.

The two legislators who have decided to go along with the release of funds for the north-south turnpike survey are Sen. Tom Moorehead (R - Muskingum) and Rep. J. Frank McClure (R - Ashland), chairmen of the Senate and House Finance Committees.

The request for the $705,500 survey fund was made last week by State Highway Director S. O. Linzell. But Moorehead and McClure delayed their decision until they had a chance to confer with their legislative colleagues this week. Other board members are Gov. Frank J. Lausche, State Auditor James A. Rhodes and Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill.

Good news for financially pressed cities came in a disclosure by McClure that a move will be made in the controlling board to transfer some 5 million dollars in unspent welfare department funds to the poor relief fund. That will enable the state to match local governments' sharply increased relief spending dollar for dollar.

The five millions would be in addition to the 17 millions voted by the last legislature for poor relief matching funds in the two-year period ending next June 30.

A major legislative development yesterday was a new attempt by Rep. Ray T. Miller Jr., Cleveland Democrat, to get the legislature to approve a 100-million-dollar bonus for Korean war veterans. His first attempt two years ago died in committee.

The bonus proposal is in the form of a constitutional amendment. This is because the constitution limits the state's debt to $750,000. The state's World War I bonus was in the same form. It paid out more than 230 million dollars to about three-fourths of a million Ohioans.

If the legislature approves the bonus proposal it goes to a vote of the people next November. It calls for payment of a $400 maximum bonus to Ohio members of the armed services on active duty between June 25, 1950, and July 19, 1953. The rates of pay to veterans would be $10 a month for domestic duty; $15 a month for foreign service and $20 a month for combat duty.

Minimum service of 60 days and a year's residence in Ohio prior to entering service would be required.

Majority Republicans in the House yesterday indicated after a caucus they have no intention of increasing the $720-a-month salary of Clerk Carl Gueas. There had been speculation Gueas would get a pay raise possibly matching the $230-a-month boost granted Monday by the Senate to its clerk, Thomas E. Bateman. The increase set Bateman's salary at $950 a month.

The Senate completed its organization yesterday by increasing the number of its standing committees from 13 to 20. That move gives all but one of the 21 Republicans in the upper chamber a committee chairmanship. Sen. Gordon Renner of Cincinnati, the lone freshman Republican in the Senate, was the only member of the GOP majority left out in the cold.

Gov. Lausche is scheduled to deliver his "State of the State" message to the legislature next week and indications were that bills designed to write his recommendations into law would be ready for introduction a few days later.

The governor's program for his history-making fifth term probably will include development of the St. Lawrence Seaway facilities on the Ohio shore of Lake Erie; increases in unemployment and workmen's compensation; tightened strip-mine regulation; revision of the rate base formula for public utilities, and a multi-million-dollar bond issue for mental and correctional institutions.

House minority leader James J. McGettrick, Cleveland Democrat, announced appointment of Robert Reider, Port Clinton publisher, as his administrative assistant. Reider, Ottawa County representative for the last two sessions and minority whip the last session, was defeated last November in his bid for the office of secretary of state.

Reds Renew Dispute Over Plane Incidents

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia was disclosed today to have renewed its long-standing dispute with the United States over blame for three Far Eastern incidents involving planes of the two countries.

Informed officials said Soviet notes delivered to the U. S. Embassy at Moscow on New Year's Day reaffirmed the Russian viewpoint on these incidents:

1. The shooting down by Soviet aircraft on July 29, 1953, of an American RB50 plane over the Sea of Japan, with the loss of 15 crew members.

2. The shooting down two days earlier of a Russian IL12 airplane, with 20 aboard, by a U. S. Air Force fighter plane on a combat mission in Korea. At the time, this country expressed regret over loss of the Russian airmen, but said the Soviet plane had no business being where it was.

3. The shooting down of a U. S. Air Force plane, with the loss of its eight-man crew, by Soviet fighters off northern Japan Oct. 7, 1952. Each government blames the other for the incidents.

U. S. officials had no explanation for timing of the Russian notes except to say they were in response to questions raised by Washington and filled in more detail on some points.

U. S. officials say they see no way to settle the recurring disputes over air incidents except to keep plugging away.

Democrats In Congress Plan Investigations On Many Fronts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats, taking control of Congress, say they plan an active year of investigations on many different fronts.

A continuing search for Communists in government and a close scrutiny of the security and power programs of the Eisenhower administration are among main ones.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) incoming chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said today he will probably revive the Preparedness subcommittee for a critical look at the armed forces' purchasing program and other activities. He said it also would be the logical one to examine the proposed 403,000-man cut in the armed forces.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he thinks the Republicans spent too much time "digging up old corpses" and Democrats "will keep their investigations more current."

The Senate Rules Committee, from which Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) is about to step down as chairman, is working on a suggested new code of "fair play" rules for investigations. In the House, Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) has announced he also will propose such a code.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) who will take over the Investigations subcommittee chairmanship from Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), says this group will abolish "one man hearings," which have been a subject of deep controversy. He said he hopes his committee, the Senate Internal Security subcommittee and the House Un-American Activities Committee can avoid duplication in probes of communism.

In the House, Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) has announced no detailed plans for investigations pending a shakeup of the staff of the Un-American Activities Committee, of which he becomes chairman.

The outgoing chairman, Rep. Velde (R - Ill.), reportedly has turned down resignations offered by two staff members: Robert L. Kunzig, chief committee counsel, and Raphael I. Nixon, research director. Neither they nor Velde could be immediately reached for comment.

Walter said in an interview that if Kunzig and Nixon don't submit their resignations to him, "I'll ask for them." He promised cuts in the committee's 47-man staff.

One subject certain to undergo investigation is the Dixon-Yates contract, under which the government would buy privately generated electric power to be fed into the public power lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority. A Senate Judiciary subcommittee to be headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), a bitter foe of the project, has already had a preliminary look at the project.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-C) has announced plans to investigate the announcements of security risk firings. Johnston calls it "a numbers racket that misleads more than it informs." A report Monday listed 8,008 persons dropped as security risks in a period of 16 months. Of the total, 2,096 were said to have "subversive data" in their files.

"I hope to show," Johnston said, "whether these figures represent a deliberate attempt to magnify a situation." He said the inquiry also will "look into evidence that points in the direction of partisanship" to discredit prior Democratic administrations.

Both infant and maternal mortality rates continued to decline in 1954 to new low levels.

To Plan '55 Activities

LISBON — The executive committee of the Columbiana County Rural Health and Safety Council will plan 1955 activities Monday afternoon at 1:30 at Lepper Library.

Mrs. Gurney Converse of RD 2, Columbiana, president, said mental hygiene will be continued as a theme for the next quarterly meeting Jan. 26 at the parish hall of St. George's Catholic Church.

Busy Months In Columbus

There is agreement among members of the Ohio General Assembly, which convened Monday, that this is going to be an exceptionally busy session.

But if recollection is reliable, members of the Assembly always look forward to exceptionally busy sessions. There are no dull, quiet sessions of a state legislature that convenes every other year in the expectation of winding up its affairs in six months.

The legislative affairs of Ohio would be handled better in the long run if its representatives and senators could get rid of the idea they were supposed to work under forced draft. Then they could do something about the last-minute pileup that causes bad bills to slip through each session — bills which wouldn't stand a show if they were studied at leisure.

The least that Ohioans can do to take pressure off the General Assembly is to refrain from putting on pressure in the first place for the introduction and passage of bills that never could see the light of day.

In only rare instances do representatives and senators originate the bills they dump into legislative hoppers. They usually represent their constituents when they introduce bills. And they never like to turn down a request to introduce any bill that is reasonably sound.

Representative democracy begins at home and is brought to a focus in state capitals and in Washington. The Ohio General Assembly, like the new Congress, is no more than a reflection of its members' constituents.

If the constituents sometimes give the impression in legislative affairs that they all want something for nothing, they should not blame the mirror for what is reflected in it.

Another Year of Reality

Once more men are peering ahead into a new year and finding a reflection of their own hopes, as they have done since time immemorial.

But there is a better way to look ahead. It is to remember that hope must share space with disappointment for the next 12 months.

Those who say, "Peace, peace, when there is no peace" are practicing a deception as old as the time of Jeremiah.

But men who strive to bring peace closer, despite criticism and disappointment, justify more hope of peace than the bright promises of those who merely yearn for it, or seek credit for voicing a popular wish.

Still other men try to achieve harmony in the internal affairs of one country, against the opposition of quarreling factions that curse them for being unwilling to take sides in fights nobody can win. They try to reconcile men who have taken irreconcilable positions. They try to substitute good will for the venom spread by men who have not earned the right to be trusted with responsibility for their fellow men.

Such men are never thrown into despair by setbacks and disappointments, because they have learned to expect them, along with success. They have learned that the "unusual is the usual" in men's affairs and that the ultimate test of mentality and character is the ability to withstand trial.

They know that men grow and learn to appraise values by withstanding adversity. They justify the highest hopes for peace, progress and prosperity.

The optimist is not just a person who thinks this is the best possible world. A true optimist believes reality — all reality — is essentially good.

Prosperity and bankruptcy are obverse signs of the same thing. Sickness and health go together, birth and death, war and peace.

There comes a time when a mature society, like a mature individual, must quit dreaming about pie in the sky and live with reality.

The United States is now a mature society. It is the oldest of the republics, the strongest of all the nations that have embraced industrialism.

It has taken its destined place of leadership in the world. It has done everything it could be expected to do, except one thing.

It still has not learned to accept reality that produces triumphs and disappointments with complete impartiality.

At the beginning of another year that will have its fair share of both for everybody concerned, it could be wished that Americans might strive harder to accept things as they are, instead of being thrown off balance by the impact of each new disappointment.

The year 1955 is going to be tough. It will take deep and abiding faith to endure its trials.

Only those who have that kind of faith and can withstand many disappointments will earn the kind of happiness that underlies the wish for a Happy New Year as the events of another January begin to unfold.

Earmuffs are especially valuable this time of year—if you use them to keep from hearing what people say about TV commercials.

Glaring Omission

White House Recommendations Ignore FEPC

There's one item thus far omitted from President Eisenhower's proposed legislative program, and that's a recommendation for the enactment of a fair employment practices commission.

Unless included, it may render meaningless the label moderate progressive by which the White House describes its philosophical position nowadays.

For the FEPC, which has been blocked in Congress by a filibuster of southern Democrats, becomes a logical measure at least for consideration now that the Supreme Court of the United States has decreed that there can be no racial discrimination in the schools.

The House of Representatives and the Senate both have been known to have majorities ready to pass the legislation. But, the difficulty has been to get the measure to a vote in the Senate because of filibustering. Now, however, that "legislative obstruction" has been declared to be an offense against ethics and is held to bring the dignity of the Senate into disrepute, there can hardly be any filibustering without stultifying the 67 senators who voted to condemn Sen. McCarthy for "legislative obstruction." This number is more than two-thirds of the Senate—enough to alter the rules and cut off unlimited debate.

President Eisenhower is on record as having congratulated Sen. Watkins for leading a successful fight against the Wisconsin senator, and it doesn't seem plausible that Eisenhower would refrain from asserting his leadership if the measure as important to the progressive cause as is the FEPC should require his help.

It is true the President for a long time took the position that the rules of the Senate were the Senate's problem, but he modified this under pressure from his followers and certainly he has a constitutional right to recommend the adoption of legislation covering racial or religious discrimination in employment.

This whole problem was an issue in the 1952 campaign and Eisenhower won wide support in the South because of his emphasis on states' rights. His position was interpreted as meaning that he would not favor federal legislation on the subject. Since that time, however, the President's own attorney general appeared before the Supreme Court and pleaded with the court to denounce state laws which permitted racial segregation in the schools. The Supreme Court accepted the plea by a unanimous decision. From that time on, Eisenhower, in effect, has been committed to federal enforcement of all constitutional rights relating to discrimination.

Up to now, the Eisenhower administration has dealt with the issue of discrimination in employment by indirection. An executive order has been issued which stipulates that government contracts, whether for defense work or anything else, shall not be awarded—irrespective of the bids—to any contractor who permits discrimination because of race, religion or national origin.

There is really no sound basis in existing law for such an order. Besides, it applies only to those who accept contracts for work with the government. If the principle is sound for government contractors, it is argued now that the same prohibition should be written into law so as to apply to all employers.

The argument for state handling of the matter has considerable support in Congress, because New York State, with a commission and a law that does not prescribe penalties but depends primarily on public opinion, has been operating successfully. It is believed nevertheless that a bill based on the voluntary principle, such as the House of Representatives passed on Feb. 23, 1950, by a vote of 240 to 177, would be passed again by the House.

The question now is what the southern Democrats in the Senate would do about it. Eisenhower, of course, as the leader of a coalition of "left wing" Republicans and "left wing" Democrats in both houses, has an opportunity to champion the measure and possibly secure its adoption in the Senate.

It will be interesting to see whether the northern Democrats who led the fight for civil rights in the 1952 national Democratic convention are going to surrender to the "right wing" of their party and ignore one of the most important planks espoused by present-day "liberals." There has been a strange silence on the subject thus far, and one wonders if, merely for reasons of political expediency—something which true liberals usually abhor—any proposals for a Fair Employment Practices Commission will be killed in the new Congress.

Open Doors To Hokum

By RAYMOND MOLEY

In many states over the country there are gubernatorial inaugurations, in some there are governor's messages, and in Washington there will be plenty of oratorical flourishes, including the President's message to start off the new Congress.

Therefore, this may be an appropriate moment to consider such utterances as the means of innocent beguilement. For they are not meant to be taken literally. They are not literal, and only occasionally literal; they are not reasoned, for they are not addressed to reason.

They are music, not to remember, but to feel and forget. They are contributions to that body of our folk literature known as "key-noting."

Ed Lowry, whom I have always admired as a master delineator of the vagaries of statesmen, thus defined that word in an essay on President Harding: "Keynoting implies the ability to make melodic noises and give the impression of passionately and torrentially moving onward and upward while warily standing still."

AS A SPECIFIC example of what I mean, I offer the inaugural address of the Hon. Averell Harriman, now governor of the State of New York. His efforts deserve special note not only because he has attained high place in a state distinguished by a numerically superior population, but because in the preparation of the document he is said to have had the help of several gentlemen who aided the late F.D.R. in his speech preparations in the latter years of his ascendancy.

These men are capable of rare grammatical gratification. They also learned from a master politician, F.D.R. himself, the art of getting the greatest good out of the greatest number of voters.

To be sure, these speechwriters, no doubt in haste, culled from the well-thumbed book of political clichés such stuff (unworthy of them) as: "The question is not: Can we afford to do what is needed? The question is: Can we afford not to?"

IT IS NOT KIND to open such a chestnut as this, but because it will continue in political usage for centuries it is fair to add that it prompts the question: How are we to know when the need is so great that it goes beyond what we can afford?

The cliché is based upon a bit of fraudulent economics introduced by New Dealers in the late 1930's. They were in the habit of placing an arbitrary monetary price upon "social values." Then they would balance this on a scale with real money, and if the result was not what they wanted, they simply raised their monetary evaluation of "social needs."

In this economic fairland deficits grew and grew and were blessed as the flowers of a "dynamic economy."

But the Harriman speech has neat new garb for old species of double-talk:

"I propose a bold, adventurous administration. I propose that we reject no approach because it is unorthodox, and no answer merely because it requires a radical revision of present machinery or prevailing prejudices. Of course, I shall not propose action for action's sake, or measures merely for the sake of motion. We shall not reject the tried and true . . . I suggest only that our spirit be bold, and that our minds be fresh and freed from cant in approaching the problems that we face."

IN SHORT, in the bright lexicon of politics there is no such word as "cant."

To read this suggests that in the coming 18 months we shall have an entertaining rhetorical contest between the governor of New York and the ex-governor of Illinois, with the White House as the prize. And on the basis of the foregoing, Harriman already has scored an alliterative advantage.

A Humanist Funeral Service

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Corliss Lamont, whose troubles upon this earth seem manifold despite his good fortune of having chosen a successful and wealthy father to sire him, continues to battle a mystical and mysterious God whose ways are beyond his faith and imagination. In pursuit of such a struggle with the Everlasting, Corliss has come up with "A Humanist Funeral Service," which seems a queer way of starting a new religious worship. One would imagine that all things start with birth; for Corliss Lamont, apparently, they start with death.

In the foreword to this Funeral Service, he says:

"There has long been a widely felt need for a funeral service centering around a non-supernatural, Humanist philosophy of existence. The Humanist view, stemming from some of the greatest thinkers in history, rejects the idea of personal immortality and interprets death as the final end of the individual conscious personality. The philosophy or religion of Humanism sets up the happiness and progress of mankind on this earth as the supreme goal of human endeavor."

IT IS ACTUALLY a beautiful frame for a departure from this earth but it excludes everything that is even remotely related to the religions that are traditional among us, except a few excerpts from the Epistles of St. Paul.

Surely no one can object to starting a man to the afterlife of his non-being (Lamont does not tolerate a hereafter, a heaven or a hell, for that would be unscientific) with the first third of the Second Movement of Beethoven's Seventh Symphony. Nevertheless, it does seem to be that the 23rd Psalm, "The Lord is My Shepherd," comes closer to the heart of a mourner than a few lines from Ben Jonson's "A Pindaric Ode" or

William Cullen Bryant's "Thanatopsis," as beautiful as both are. It is not only a matter of taste but of depth of emotion; it is not only a matter of cold thought but of warming feeling. What seems to be so stirring in this funeral service is not its contents but that it should be done at all.

THE ATHEIST or agnostic who takes literally the "scientific" dictum of dust thou art, to dust thou turnest, that man is nothing more than a collection of molecules in a special form, a mammal who stands upright and talks his head off, is driven by the emptiness of his soul to turn to religious worship and rejecting the tried expressions of religious fervor among his own kind, turns everywhere for similar religious expression wherever he can find it.

How simple it is, in a cremation commitment, to give the soul of man to God for His mercy! However, Corliss Lamont, whose mind is tortured between the frigid materialism of Karl Marx and the sentimental Humanism of George Santayana, rejects the Psalms but accepts and puts into his service this little slice of Sir Rabindranath Tagore:

"O Fire, my brother, I sing victory to you.

You are the bright red image of fearful freedom.

You swing your arms in the sky, you sweep your impetuous fingers

Across the harp-string, your dance music is beautiful. . .

My body will be one with you, my heart will be caught in the

Whirls of your frenzy, and the burning heart that was my Life will flash up and mingle itself in your flame."

Compare that exuberant death with the comforting 68th Psalm:

"When ye lie among the sheep-folds,

The wings of the dove are covered with silver,

And her pinions with the shimmer of gold. . ."

AND WHEN one is finished with Lamont's services for the dead, what actually has happened to Corliss Lamont is that try as he will to run from God, what he has only succeeded in doing is to return to God. Were it not so, why does he bother to bury his friends with music and poetry and prayer (which he calls meditation)?

Why does he not cast the remains of his Humanists on the dustpile and have his molecules carted away to the sea to sink in the ooze of centuries as forgotten as the flies of a summer day?

Somehow the Humanist sees the heaven and tries to reach it by song, as do we all in our moments of sadness and despair, when we, gazing into the blaze of a setting sun, exult in the glories of God.

Sun Burning Out?

By THOMAS R. HENRY

The sun will explode—in about 5 billion years.

This is the prediction of Dr. Georges Gamow, professor of theoretical physics at George Washington University, in a series of lectures to the Philosophical Society of Washington.

Every 50 years or so some star in the hundred-billion-star Milky Way galaxy, of which the solar system is a part, blows up and for a few days or weeks is the brightest star in the heavens. The Star of Bethlehem may have represented such an explosion.

But, as Dr. Gamow says, these explosions are not by pure chance, as was supposed a few years ago. They happen only when a star burns up all its fuel—for the most part the elemental gas hydrogen. Then it collapses. An exploding star is more like the collapse of a burning building than the explosion of a tank of gasoline. There is no possibility that such a collapse will take place while any fuel is left.

The sun, Dr. Gamow said, is burning its hydrogen very slowly in heat-producing processes somewhat similar to that which now is the basis of the hydrogen bomb. The extreme heat of the sun, he pointed out, leads to the misconception that its fires must be very hot. Actually, the fire is so low that, if it were on the earth, it would require 10 months to boil a pot of coffee over it.

The sun's heat today is the accumulation of heat over the past 5 billion years, since the universe was created, which has not been able to escape as radiation due to the enormous size of the body. He cites the analogy of the humming bird, smallest of living creatures, and the elephant. The former produces day after day of its short life 50 times as much body heat as the elephant. Because of its small size it is able to get rid of most of it. If the elephant produced the same amount, most of which it could not "radiate," it would roast to death in a short time. This depends on the fact that the volume of a cubical or spherical object always increases faster than the surface area. Heat production is by volume, in cubic inches. Heat only escapes by surface area, in square inches.

The sun is a quite average star among its hundred billion companions, Dr. Gamow said. A few are burning their hydrogen much faster, and will go up in smoke sooner. Some are consuming their fuel much more slowly and can be expected greatly to outlive the sun. The amount of hydrogen available has been calculated. It is enough to last from 5 billion to 7 billion years at the rate at which it now is being burned.

It now is about 400 years since the last great star explosion, or Super-Nova, was observed in the Milky Way galaxy and, by the laws of chance, it is about time for another to appear. This may, of course, have happened long since, but the event would be unknown on earth. The first such phenomenon recorded by astronomers was about 1,000 years ago—but it happened so far away in space that the light of the explosion required 34,000 years to reach the earth.

The site of this explosion, recorded by Chinese astronomers, is now one of the most interesting objects in the sky—the so-called "Crab Nebula." This luminous patch, said Dr. Gamow, is the "smoke" from the explosion, which is expanding at the approximate rate of 1,000 miles a second. Photographs taken at 10-year intervals show that its size is increasing. The remnants of the star which exploded no longer are visible.

Such an explosion presumably means the death of a star. There is no known mechanism by which its heat and light can be restored.

There doesn't seem too much excuse for a poor excuse when the world is so full of really good lies.

Once Over

Of Things To Come

The number of deadlines coming up early in 1955 will do much to shape the agenda for Congress at this session. Early action will be required, for example, if the excise taxes on gasoline, automobiles, trucks, buses, trailers, alcoholic beverages, and tobacco products are to be continued at their present rates.

These higher rates imposed by the Revenue Act of 1951 expire on April 1. And an automatic cut in the corporation income tax rate—from 52 per cent to 47 per cent is scheduled for the same date.

President Eisenhower said in his press conference of Dec. 15 that "taxable income, as now forecast, would require the continuation of the five per cent extra on the corporations and these excise taxes as they now stood."

Although no specific deadlines face the Senate on ratification of treaties submitted by the President during the McCarthy censure session, the pressure of world events requires early action on these pacts.

This action could come while the House is getting under way on other legislation.

The treaties are the Paris accords on German rearmament recently ratified by the French National Assembly and the Southeast Asia defense (Manila) agreement. Also coming up is the mutual defense pact with the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa.

And the Senate must take up the nomination of Judge John Marshall Harlan to the U.S. Supreme Court and of Joseph Campbell to the comptroller-generalship, the latter threatening to be highly controversial.

The powers of the president to reorganize the executive establishment under the Government Reorganization Act expire on April 1; there may be no pressure for their renewal.

The Commission on Inter-governmental Relations, studying federal-state relationships, is slated to expire March 1, unless extension is voted on request. Its chairman, Meyer Keisbaum, is directed to complete a final report, with legislative recommendations, by that date.

Expiring May 31 is the second (Hoover) Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch. There is no plan now to ask for an extension, but Congress may request the commission to help draft new legislation.

The Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act expires on June 12. The President is expected to repeat his request last year for a three-year extension with greater powers to cut tariff rates. The Democratic leadership in Congress will be more disposed to work for extension than was the Republican leadership in 1954.

The next important deadline is June 30. On that date the present conscription powers expire. The President is expected to urge that some form of military training be incorporated in the extension.

Expiring also June 30 is the temporary $6 billion dollar hike in public debt limit from $275 billion dollars. The budget message of Jan. 17 will anticipate a further deficit for fiscal 1956.

Short of further extension by Congress, the Foreign Operations Administration is slated to terminate economic aid to foreign countries on June 30, with a one-year liquidation period. Military aid is to continue, and Point IV aid is to come under the State Department.

Appropriations, of course, will have to be renewed. Funds for the current $3.2 million dollar school lunch program, for example, are to run out on June 30. And the present 80½ to 90 per cent of parity farm price supports are authorized only for the 1955 crop year.

Murder

Earlier, he was quoted as telling his father, John:

"Daddy, I didn't do this."

Sheriff Jacobs said Frederick's story was this:

He came home about 9:30 a.m. after driving his mother to work, started a pillow fight in his sister's bedroom, and "the next thing I knew I had my hands around her throat."

Then, he continued, realizing Patricia was dead, he tried to remove her pajamas. He had difficulty with the limp body and tied a cord around her neck to keep the head from moving. Then he put the body on the rear floor of his car, drove to the thicket and dragged her body into the woods. He said he then drove to work, a holiday job at a sewing machine agency in Galion. He worked all day and returned home that night when his sister was reported missing.

Both Sears and the sheriff said they wanted to study the case further before deciding what charges would be filed.

Frederick, discharged last summer from a private correctional school in Albion, Mich., earlier had been on probation after a 6-year-old boy was injured when a gun discharged. He was sent to the school following an arson case.

After leaving the Michigan school, he spent some time at a branch of the Albion school in Van Wert, Ohio, which specializes in guidance of problem boys.

Housing Project Head Bans Drinking, Pets

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP)—Ernest J. Connelly, a book-loving Sunday school teacher who manages a federal housing project here, said he felt the 76 families in the project needed "someone to take care of them."

So yesterday, he sent them a letter forbidding them to drink alcoholic beverages on the premises, keep pets or light their apartments with light bulbs larger than 60 watts.

"Just last year there was a murder here," said Connelly, former librarian and history instructor at Chowan Junior College of Murfreesboro, N.C. "Some of these occupants are very immoral."

Drinking by the tenants violates a clause in their leases banning "illegal and immoral" conduct, Connelly declared.

And, he said, pet dogs had been digging holes around shrubbery planted to beautify the project. Thomas Rolfe Court, excessive use of electricity was overloading electric circuits; tenants had been guilty of "poor housekeeping and maintenance of the yard"; and their children had fired air rifles in the project.

Connelly said similar letters, outlining similar prohibitions, would go soon to 120 families of the Davisville project for Negroes.

Whether his action would stand appeared in doubt today. C.A. Reese, chairman of the housing commission to which Connelly is responsible, said the commission would consider Connelly's rules at a session set for Jan. 27.

Hamarskjold Arrives In China; Dines With Two Red Leaders

TOKYO (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, seeking freedom for 11 American airmen and other U.N. prisoners of Red China, dined privately tonight with Communist Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai and Vice Foreign Minister Chang Han-fu, Peiping radio said.

Communist broadcasts heard in Tokyo reported only sketchy details of the U.N. chief's arrival this afternoon and made no mention of his mission which was prompted by an overwhelming General Assembly vote.

Will Offer Reward For Remon Killers

PANAMA (AP)—Panama is expected to offer $50,000 for information leading to the killers of President Jose Antonio Remon. The government also has asked the National Assembly for another $50,000 for investigation expenses.

The Assembly unanimously approved the first reading yesterday of an administration bill authorizing the payments. Final passage was believed certain, probably Thursday.

Authorities said identification of the weapons used in the Remon slaying implicated ex-President Arnulfo Arias, one of 66 persons arrested.

Secret Police Chief Jorge Luis Alfaro said guns of the same type, German-made Schmeisser 9-mm. machine guns, have been confiscated on previous occasions from Arias, who was ousted from the presidency in 1951 in a bloody coup by the national guard. Remon was head of the guard at that time.

Shortly after Remon, 46, was machine-gunned Sunday at the Juan Franco race track, Arias was arrested at his coffee plantation 300 miles west of the capital. He apparently still is being held there. Other suspects were still being picked up.

President Jose Ramon Guizado, who was sworn in early Monday, asked Washington to let FBI agents help in the hunt. American officials said U.S. law prohibits such a foreign assignment.

Wezel Introduces Conveyor Belt Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Backers of the controversial Lake-Erie-to-Ohio River "rubber railroad" today opened their third attempt to get the Ohio Legislature's approval of their bid for the right to condemn land for a right of way.

Identical bills which probably will touch off one of the big fights of the 101st General Assembly were introduced in both houses. They were sponsored by Sen. Charles A. Mosher, Oberlin Republican, and Rep. Clarence Wetzel, Columbiana County Democrat.

The measures were dumped in the hopper as both houses opened the floodgates to an expected heavy stream of bills which may total as high as 1,000 before the session ends.

The "rubber railroad" — a proposed conveyor belt system to carry coal, iron ore and limestone between lake ports and steel mills on the Ohio River—lost out in the 98th and 99th General Assemblies. Bills supporting its bid for the right of eminent domain died in committee after bitter fights with railroads the principal opponents.

and McCamon, and two citizens, Gordon and Weber. Council President Aldom acts as chairman. Hayes was appointed secretary last night.

While the committee and its seven task forces have no legislative power, it was explained that their detailed study of the curfew problem will enable Council to see more clearly all aspects of the measure. It is expected that their recommendations will have considerable influence upon Council's action especially in regard to the curfew which would order teen-agers to be home by a certain time.

The study by the task forces will include results curfew ordinances have had in neighboring communities, reaction of students, school authorities and parents, and the problems of enforcing a curfew.

In explaining the setup to the committee, Taylor said that its main asset was that persons, expert in their fields and totally objective, were able to voice suggestions influencing legislation.

A tentative meeting of the committee has been scheduled for Jan. 25.

Richard Oyers, Wed Recently, Now At Home

Now residing in their farm home in Carroll County are Richard Oyer and his bride, the former Kathryn Stuckey of RD, Kensington. The couple pledged their vows in a double ring ceremony performed Christmas Day.

Rev. A. S. Wilson, pastor, officiated at the marriage of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Stuckey of Kensington and the son of Mrs. Frank Haynam of Minerva, which took place in the sanctuary of the Hanoverton Christian Church.

Mr. Stuckey escorted his daughter to the altar where white chrysanthemums and lighted tall white tapers in candelabra were combined for the setting. White ribbon marked the family pews.

Mrs. Fred Kelson, church organist, played the nuptial prelude and the traditional marches heralding the bride.

Complementing the bride's ball-erina gown of white brocaded nylon was the corsage of white carnations she wore. Her veil was fingertip length.

The bride's cousin, Miss Shirley Richey and her sister, Miss Etta Stuckey, were bridesmaids in blue and yellow nylon costumes respectively. Junior bridesmaids in green and yellow nylon were Janie Oyer, niece of the bridegroom, and Judy Stuckey, another sister of the bride. All four attendants had white carnations as did the bride.

Flower-girls were Judy and Bonnie Oyer, nieces of the bridegroom. Judy was in pink and Bonnie in blue nylon and each wore white carnations.

John Oyer of Kensington was his brother's best man. Ushers were Glen and Robert Lautzenhiser.

The bride's mother chose a blue suit and the bridegroom's mother appeared in black. They too had white carnation corsages.

Members of the immediate families and friends were served at the reception in the church basement where the newlyweds greeted 80 guests. Members of the family assisted in serving. Mrs. George Raines of Canton presided at the punch bowl.

Color-In-Homes Classes Are Set For 10 Townships

Color, depending on which you use, can make you happy or make you gloomy, cool you off or warm you. Miss Jean Stille, Columbiana County home demonstration agent declares.

Creating the effect housewives want in their rooms by use of proper color combinations will be the aim of a series of 10 township classes starting Jan. 12.

Called "color-in-the-home" courses, they will show how wives can make each room an experience in color; one may charm, another sparkle, another stimulate, still another subdue, Miss Stille said.

"Colors have an emotional effect upon people," the home agent stated. "Those such as light blue and green suggest freshness and rest; bright hues, like orange, crimson, and red, create excitement and action."

These are a few of the basic principles of color to be considered in the meetings, open to the public, starting in Unity Township Jan. 12.

Other meetings already scheduled are in Butler Township, Jan. 20; Perry Township, Jan. 26; Salem Township, Jan. 27; Fairfield, Jan. 28; Salineville, Feb. 2; Elkrun, Feb. 3; Unity, Feb. 8; Franklin, Feb. 15; and Knox, Feb. 22.

The sessions will begin about 10 a.m. and end at 3 p.m.

Classes on how to make slipcovers will begin in March, Miss Stille said.

THEY'LL EVEN PLAY AN IRISH JIG

THOUSANDS OF PERSONS in the United States and Canada should have a better understanding of the words "good will," thanks to the Irish Guards. This famous musical organization recently went on a good will tour of both countries and left behind them many friends. One of the standouts, physically as well as musically, is Sgt. Frank Clark, the six-foot, eight-inch drum sergeant of the Guards. He has been with them for 30 years. Like traveling bands the world over, the members spend much of their time in polishing buttons, whitening belts and practicing. But few bands can approach the gay Irish Guards either in their musical ability or in color.

It's no joke to say other players look up to Sgt. Clark.

He's reading an American who-done-it.

He has to be a part-time seamstress.

Some of the band members listen closely as their leader goes over score at session.

Sugar Ray Comeback Set Tonight

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson sat in his long-awaited comeback tonight, and the magic of his name may draw more than 10,000 paying customers to Olympia Stadium.

The former middleweight champion, lean and little despite his 34 years, meets Joe Rindone, of Boston, in a non-television 10-rounder.

Robinson's appearance in Detroit has generated a new interest—at least for tonight. In workouts, fans—both male and female—jammed the gym to get a glimpse of him in action.

The question is how much has his 30-month layoff dulled his once-brilliant skills?

"I feel good and still can move around in the ring, but you never know," he said. "Being away from the ring 30 months is a long time."

What prompted his attempted comeback? money? The bright lights? Pride?

A little of each, said Sugar Ray. "I can use the money," he said, "but I'm not broke. I missed the atmosphere. I missed the fight crowds, the kibitzers in the dressing rooms, the guys in the gym. . . I guess I missed everything about it."

If all goes well, Robinson said, he hopes to get a June title shot at middleweight champion Bobo Olson. Robinson defended his championship against Olson in a title match March 13, 1952.

Sugar Ray hasn't fought since June of that same year when, arm weary and exhausted, he collapsed in the 14th round in Yankee Stadium while trying to take the light heavyweight crown from Joey Maxim.

Louisville Beats Leetonia 66-53

Coach Tom McCutcheon's Leetonia Bears were given their fourth defeat of the season 66-53 by the Louisville Leopards in a Tri-County battle last night at Leetonia.

Bill Gibson was high point man for the Leetonia cagers with 17 markers, followed by John Mandish and Walt Rutaky with 12 points each.

Murphy led the Louisville squad with 20 points.

Leetonia edged the Louisville Reserves 41-40 in the preliminary game.

LOUISVILLE—66
Murphy 8-20, Summers 3-0-6, Mathie 8-0-16, Kuhn 3-0-16, Howell 0-2-2, Edwards 2-0-4, Kordell 1-0-2.
LEETONIA—53
Gibson 8-17, Less 1-1-3, Bell 1-0-2, Mandish 4-4-12, Rutaky 4-4-12, Rohrer 1-1-3, McClint 2-0-4.
LOUISVILLE 14 33 47 66
LEETONIA 10 23 35 53

The tallest member of Coach Leo Benjamin's starting five will go at 6-feet even. Jim Schaefer, New Philly center, stands 6-feet tall as does Larry Gray, one of the forwards. Brian Lewis, the other starting New Philadelphia forward, stands 5-11.

At the two guard positions will be Ralph Huff and Ray Reese. Reese is 5-10 and Huff 5-7.

NEW PHILADELPHIA has a 2-3 season record. They have beaten Ulrichsville 70-61 and New Cumberland 65-63 while losing to Cambridge 64-52, Canton South 53-42, and Wooster 57-55.

New Philly and the Wellsville Bengals met last night. The locals dropped the Wellsville cagers from the undefeated ranks 86-67 two weeks ago.

In addition to the starting five, Benjamin has four other cagers who will probably see action. Senior Nick Scalambrino, a 5-9 guard, juniors Jack Garrett and Jim Marsarelli, both going at 5-11, and a 5-10 freshman Jim Roll.

Benjamin, an alumnus of New Philadelphia High School, is in his second season as head coach there.

Cabas was undoubtedly go with the same starting lineup he has used in the Quakers' first five contests—Dick Hunter, Ken Bosu, and Captain Harry Baird out front and Jerry Myers and Jack Alexander underneath.

MYERS IS THE TALLEST of the Quakers going at 6-2. Alexander is 6-1 with Larry Stoffer, Dale Middeker and Matt Klein just over the 6-foot mark. Hunter and Baird are 5-11 while Bosu goes at 5-10.

Individual Salem scoring for the first five games finds Bosu out in front with a total of 72 points, followed closely by Baird and Alexander with 71 markers. Dick Hunter has 65 points, Dale Middeker 39, and Larry Stoffer 33.

The Quakers are averaging 86 points per game while the opponents are hitting the hoops at an average of 49.4 markers in each game. The sizzling shooting of the Quakers has been a main factor in the large scores run up by the Cabasmen. They're making an average of 46.7 per cent of their shots from the field, considered very high for high school ball.

The Ravens will have a decided height advantage when the Quakers and the Ravens meet Saturday night.

Ron Cox will start at center for the Ravens with Bob Baker and Max Cole at the forward slots and Vince DiGrannimo and Tom Burke at guards. Cox stands 6-4 while the two forwards go at 6-1.

DESPITE THEIR height, the Ravens are reported to be weak in the rebound department.

The Ravens have won five games so far this season while dropping four. While the Quakers meet New Philly Friday night Ravens meet a tough Kent Roosevelt squad.

The Ravens cagers under Coach Don Vance have defeated Stowe, Tallmadge, Newton Falls, Louisville, and their Alumni. Alliance, Warren Harding and Akron St. Vincent's beat the Ravens, St. Vincent's twice.

The Quakers are in top shape and neither team should be too tough for them, although Coach John Cabas says "we're playing them one at a time and making no rash promises."

Sebring Rolls Over Blue Devils 71-45

The Sebring High School Trojans handed Coach Jack Mills' Lisbon cagers their third loss of the season last night 71-45 on the Blue Devils home floor.

The Trojans took a three-point first-quarter lead, forged ahead 42-28 at halftime and went on to win by 26 points.

Thornley was high man for the Trojans with eight field goals and 10 fouls for 26 points, followed by Eddie's 23 markers.

Jerry Rose and Chick Ashton led the Blue Devils' scoring with 17 and 16 points, respectively.

The Blue Devils took the prelim contest 36-30.

Friday night the Lisbon cagers entertain Minerva.

Navy Coach Considers New 5-Year Contract

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy Football Coach Eddie Erdelatz has under consideration a new five-year contract to keep him on the job here at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Home fresh from a 21-0 Sugar Bowl triumph over Mississippi on New Year's Day, Erdelatz said only:

"I am happy to get the offer."

In his five seasons at Navy, Erdelatz's teams have beaten Army four times. His contract expires this year. The salary was never disclosed, but was believed to be about $15,000 per year. The new contract reportedly contains a $2,000 raise.

Erdelatz's team returned late last night and paraded through the streets of Annapolis before thousands of welcomers.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By R. I. LIDE

New Year's Day brought to an end the open season on rabbits with most hunters reporting good hunting with a definite increase in the rabbit population.

One hunter explained the nice part about being allowed to hunt on New Year's day was that it gave him the chance to walk off the effects of the night before celebration.

Ruffed grouse season is still in until Jan. 15, inclusive. This elusive and fast flying bird is not sought after by many hunters although there are a few hunters who prefer grouse to any other type wing shooting. Another thing about a grouse hunter is he is very secretive about the spots where the hunting is best because they are where you happen to find them and soon learn to flush well out of gun range as the pressure increases.

RACCOON SEASON is in until Jan. 31, inclusive. 'Coon usually come out of their dens to feed when we have a winter thaw. One 'coon hunter reports his party has caught 92 so far this season which is a tremendous take.

I have seen the time, not too many years ago, when a 'coon hunter liked to spout off about having caught 35 or 40 in a season. The chances were this man had a no-good dog he wanted to sell for a fancy price in hopes some sucker would fall for this line of chatter. Now most any hunter can get 40 in a season with a just average dog. . . because raccoon are plentiful.

OHIO BOYSTOWN is sponsoring a Mid-States Sports, Vacation & Boat Show at the Cleveland Arena this week. I understand there's a good stage show plus all the latest in fishing and hunting equipment. Sports shows are not only educational to the outdoorsman but provide interesting entertainment that helps pass away a winter night. It also helps to plan the summer vacation.

AN ALLIANCE FISHERMAN who does not wish to have his name mentioned did some ice fishing last week at Westville Lake. His catch was 5 7" bluegills, a 10" crappie and two Lake Erie size perch 11-12". Fishing time 1½ hrs. I understand "Red" Craven, the manager, will permit ice fishing if there is enough demand for it.

If it works at Westville it also should work at Lake Guilford. Fishermen are encouraged to do some ice fishing. When ice fishing, the least commotion on the ice the better. Not only can fish hear you but can see your movements so you have to keep still. Small minnows and small black flies with a maggot attached produces the best results.

THE LAST HIGHWAY KILL of deer for 1954 occurred on Route 30, about 3½ miles south of Lisbon Dec. 27. The animal jumped in front of a car being driven by John Watson of East Liverpool. It was a doe weighing around 125 pounds and still alive when I arrived. I put it out of its misery and delivered it to the County Home.

Top Grid Stars Ready For 6th Annual Senior Bowl Classic

By HOYT HARWELL

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The other bowl games produced their share of stars, but which would shine if they were all in the same football game? Saturday's sixth annual Senior Bowl classic will provide the answer.

Both coaches, Paul Brown of the North squad and Steve Owen of the South, have 25-man squads.

Dave Leggett, national champion Ohio State's quarterback named the Rose Bowl's outstanding player, will direct one of Brown's backfields.

In leading the Buckeyes to a 20-7 victory over Southern Cal, Leggett scored one touchdown, passed for another and made a pitchout on his pet option play for the third.

Of his teammates, 192-pound center Bob Thornton and 213-pound end Dean Dugger will be used up front by Brown.

On the same side with the Ohio Staters will be two of their Rose Bowl foes, halfback Lindon Crow and his running mate, Frank Clayton.

The other North quarterback, Indiana's Florian Helinski, threw a 52-yard pass for one of the North's touchdowns when it led 17-20 to the South in the Shrine's College All-Star Game at Miami Christmas night.

The South, though, will not be without its bowl stars at quarterback.

Auburn's Bobby Freeman ran for a touchdown, passed for another and was second to teammate Joe

The Bulldogs won the contest at the foul line, sinking 23 free throws to 15 for the Columbiana roundballers. The Clippers had 20 field goals to 18 for East Palestine. Two of the Clippers' starting five fouled out of the contest. Two of the Bulldog squad members also were sent to the showers on five fouls.

The Columbiana Jayvees edged the East Palestine reserves 38-33. Friday night the Clippers go to Leetonia.

25 Died Of Grid Injuries In '54

NEW YORK (AP)—Football deaths continued to rise in 1954, and in the opinion of Dr. Floyd Eastwood of Los Angeles State College will increase even more in the next two years.

Dr. Eastwood's 23rd annual report to the American Football Coaches Assn. last night showed 25 deaths last season—highest since 1949 and almost 7 per cent above the average in the 23 years records have been kept. It was the second straight season deaths have increased.

The report indicated faulty equipment was a major factor rather than the increased physical strain of one-platoon football.

In fact, most of the 25 fatalities occurred in high school football, which has retained the two-platoon system.

The report listed 19 deaths directly attributable to the sport. Most of the other six fatalities were laid to heart conditions, not originating in football play.

Among recommendations made to the AFCA Board of Trustees:

1. A complete physical examination for players before the season and at midseason.
2. That no boy with a history of heart abnormalities be allowed to play.
3. That every concussion be X-rayed immediately.
4. That players suffering serious concussions be barred from further play.
5. That no institution be allowed to play a football game unless a physician is on duty on the field.
6. That continued and increasing emphasis on tackling and blocking practice be maintained throughout the season.

Fairfield Gets 6th Win In Seven Starts

Fairfield gained their sixth victory in seven starts last night by defeating Berlin Center on the home court 57-49. For Berlin Center the defeat was their third in eight contests.

Fairfield jumped to an early lead and at the end of the first quarter led 18-9. Berlin Center narrowed the gap to 25-29 at the end of the half, but never were able to overtake their opponents who led 43-37 at the end of the third period.

Center Denver Gatrell of Berlin Center was the evening's high scorer with 17 points.

The Old Year

By SAUL PETT
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—The new year is well into its first week but I'm still thinking about the old one. Like a man cleaning out his desk of thoughts or phrases once so dear but which somehow never made it. Mostly they are things which couldn't get by editors or things which I didn't think of until it was too late. Now they are alone, unloved, unwanted, pitiful in their rejection, a little stupid looking since they have been cut off completely from the father of the thought.

Almost every year I try to get in the phrase, "A man with an utterly resistible personality." Why couldn't I make it in 1954? There were so many fine opportunities. Rummaging through another drawer, I find, "There was absolutely no news today. None at all." Period. End story. When will I be able to say that?

Sure, I know it's been overdone. I know the boss grabs his ulcer every time he reads it. But are there many better ways of starting a story than "This is the story of..."

"Sad to relate, there are so many 'buts' and 'ands' left over. Why do editors cut them out to often? A 'but' or an 'and' is the kind of word an editor can pounce on and eliminate with the thirty zest of a business manager removing the water in an expense account. You'd think he had to pay for every letter of type himself.

"But" can be one of the strongest words in the English language. It says that may be true but not this. It says turn left but not right, at the risk of life and limb. It says, stop, now we got something else.

JEAN SIMMONS pleads with Michael Rennie in a dramatic scene from "Desiree," the CinemaScope romance in color now at the State Theatre. Also starred in the Twentieth Century-Fox film are Marlon Brando as Napoleon and Merle Oberon as Josephine. Miss Simmons, of course, is Desiree.

And the loveable, harmless little "and." "And" moves you along gently; it lets you know you're still in the same room, maybe just facing another wall. It is a friendly word, inviting another look, another thought. Really, the word needs more "ands."

And someday I'll get to write about a big operator, a diamond-studded tycoon who made his pile in the junk business. And, I hope, the story will begin "Jones was a big man in junk." Neat, simple, to the point.

I know lots of writers and they all have beloved bits and pieces left over from 1954 and many years that went before. The lady next to me keeps wanting to write, "He started a brouhaha." She's not sure how to spell it but she thinks it means a flurry of activity or small riot. Nice word, brouhaha.

Another fellow has been frustrated all the 18 years he's been in this business. Someday, we all hope, he'll be able to start a story beginning "A human skull rolled out on the table."

Still another lady writer complains, "I'm an 'actually' and 'however' and 'on the other hand' girl myself. When will they stop cutting them out?"

But with all his tender sensibilities a writer is made durable by hope. Someday we'll all get these things out of our system. Someday I'll be able to say of a certain party, "he was never too busy to say an unkind word."

A Year-End Telegram to the 10,000 Ford Motor Company Dealers of America

(Text of a Message Sent by Henry Ford II, President, Ford Motor Company, Shortly After the Close of Business, In 1954).

1954 was a great year for America.

We proved that we can have peace and prosperity at the same time.

1954 was a great year for Ford Motor Company, too.

In 1954, our domestic payrolls totaled more than $950,000,000, averaging better than $18,000,000 each week.

1954 was the best sales year in the 51 years we have been in business.

In 1954, the American public bought more Ford Motor Company passenger cars and trucks than in any other year. In total, our customers selected and purchased more than 2,000,000 Fords, Lincolns, Mercurys, Ford trucks and Ford tractors.

During 1954, the public swing to the Ford passenger car was clearly established.

Complete sales information for the industry is available, at this moment, only to November 1st.

For the first 10 months of 1954, more people bought Ford passenger cars than any other make. In fact, for the entire 15-month period from August 1, 1953, to November 1, 1954—a postwar period of free competition—the Ford car is first in sales... and our sales are continuing at a leadership rate.

We are proud of this record for 1954. We are grateful to the people who made the record possible—our employees, our dealers, our suppliers and, most importantly, our customers.

As still another great year for America begins, we remind ourselves that any achievements of ours are made possible only by the kind of country in which we live and work.

We believe that American freedom and American opportunity are the silent partners of all the individuals and all the companies that have helped keep this country always new, young, vigorous and strong. Signed: Henry Ford II.

...AND WE AT HINE MOTOR, TOO, MR. FORD Have Had the Same Experience!

THE ALL-NEW 1955 FORDS HAVE SOLD SO WELL, (PUBLIC ACCEPTANCE HAS BEEN SO GREAT) OUR USED CAR LOT IS FILLED TO OVERFLOWING WITH THE WIDEST SELECTION OF RECONDITIONED, READY-TO-GO USED CARS WE HAVE EVER HAD TO OFFER! AS PUBLIC DEMAND CONTINUES WITH THE START OF THE NEW YEAR, WE MUST CLEAR OUR LOT TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE TRADE-INS THAT ARE ARRIVING EVERY DAY! WE ARE READY TO DO BUSINESS ON A VOLUME BASIS—SO WE HAVE SLASHED PRICES AND ARE PASSING THIS HUGE SAVINGS ON TO THE MOTORING PUBLIC OF OUR MARKETING AREA. WON'T YOU COME IN TODAY AND LET US PROVE IT TO YOU?

—H. I. HINE

I ONLY SAID EVE'S GOT THE RIGHT IDEA, QUITTING SCHOOL WHILE YOUR FATHER'S SICK. IT TAKES COURAGE TO MAKE A DECISION LIKE THAT—

AND IT TAKES REAL NERVE TO BUTT INTO A FAMILY DISCUSSION, LEO MAYBANK—

THERE'S JUST NO SENSE IN ARGUING, JULIE. I'M HERE—AND I'M STAYING—AT LEAST UNTIL POP'S BACK ON HIS FEET.

WE'LL TALK ABOUT THIS LATER—WHEN WE'RE ALONE!

WELL, PARTNER, I GUESS THAT COOKS MY OL' GOOSE AROUND THIS HOUSE. SISTER JULIE, I HAVE MY BEAT-UP SUITCASE ON THE SIDEWALK—BY NOON!

YOU HAVE A FRIEND AT COURT, LEO. AND BELIEVE ME, IT TAKES TWO ABLE-BODIED PEOPLE TO TALK JULIE OUT OF ANYTHING! SO—HANG AROUND, PARTNER!
